Modern Romanian culture has emerged and developed over the past 250 years, under a strong influence from western European cultures, especially French and German culture. In addition, under the influence of the Byzantine and Slavic tradition, Romanians are also the only Orthodox Christian people among the Latin peoples. A contribution to the Romanian identity or culture has also brought to other periods other ethnic communities smaller or bigger established over the centuries on Romanian territory, such as in ancient times the Cumanians, later the Roma, the Jews, the Armenians, etc., also repatriated representatives of the Aromanian branch of the Romanians.<sup>[1]</sup>
